Standford handout #9
Gloria Cuevas

1. -It is going to return false because it is comparing a String(reference variable) with a char(primitive variable). You cannot use == to compare an object or reference variable. The correct way would be name.equals("Q");

   -I see everything correct in the second example and I would expect it to run smoothly.